because iron-deficiency anemia is more common in athletes, it's important to monitor iron status many have triggered devastating effects in young teenagers, such as heart attack